The Fieldhouse: Ground Preparation Begins

In a ceremony held last Tuesday, 15 September, the Hon. Julian Koziak, Minister of Consumer and Corporate Affairs and MLA for Edmonton Strathcona, together with John L. Schlosser, Chairman of the Board of Governors, slipped the traditional silver spade into the ground at the site of the University's new fieldhouse, thereby initiating the construction of our institution's latest academic facility. The facility, whose construction will be complete in time for the 1983 World University Games, will first be used as the venue for the men's and women's basketball events in the games. During the Universiade, it will also be used as a training site and will accommodate athletic therapy and various administrative services. Hosting between fifty and sixty basketball teams from around the world, the fieldhouse will provide high quality viewing from permanent and temporary seats for about 10,000 spectators.

After the games are over, the fieldhouse will become an integral part of the University with permanent seating for 5,200 spectators.

The University of Alberta Fieldhouse will greatly supplement our current athletic and recreational space with an impressive array of new sports and administrative facilities. Specifically, there will be a portable competition and four intramural basketball courts, four tennis courts, four volleyball courts, a field hockey and team handball court, a soccer area, the capability of hosting international gymnastic events, a 200 metre running track, field event facilities, locker and storage areas, and concourse and concession areas.

The fieldhouse, of course, will not be used only by and for the Faculty of Physical Education and Recreation. According to Ross Macnab, Vice-President of the Universiade 83 Edmonton Corporation and former Associate Dean of the Faculty, the planned facility will provide the opportunity for expanding the Faculty's offerings to the wider community. In particular, the fieldhouse's design will allow it to accommodate young children and people who are handicapped.

The project consultants are Ragan, Bell, McManus and the general contractor is Ellis-Don Limited. The construction costs will not exceed $18,349,199. Funding for the project has been provided by Alberta Advanced Education and Manpower. □

Pensions and Benefits Setup Undergoes Fine Tuning

"During 1977-78, the total amount expended on benefits for academic and non-academic staff will exceed $15 million, greater than the budgets of most individual Faculties. In a purely economical sense, therefore, benefits are a more powerful entity which deserve more attention than they are now receiving or, for that matter, are capable of receiving under a decentralized process."

So said a 1977 preliminary study into the administration of benefits programs at this University. That these words and others of similar import contained in a second, more detailed study rang true in University Hall is reflected by the establishment of the Central Pension and Benefits Administration Office.

The office, located in 141 Athabasca Hall, is an independent unit that reports to the Vice-President (Finance and Administration) through the Executive Assistant to the V.P. It opened on 2 July 1981 thus giving the staff of nine a few weeks to gird themselves for the return of all and sundry to campus.

In the four years since the plan for the new unit was moved from the back burner to the front, the annual cost to the University of providing benefits to its employees rose to more than $20 million annually. (This amount includes benefits involving premiums or cash-flow payments, pension contributions, vacations, and other internally funded benefits such as professional expense allowance and remission of tuition fees. It does not include employee contributions.)

The University had also implemented long-term disability insurance and dental insurance plans for non-academic staff and one major non-academic staff plan—group life insurance—was subjected to changes that led to vastly increased coverage for individual staff members. Prominent here was the addition of more optional insurance and the tying of the basic coverage to an individual's salary (the death benefit equates to one year's salary or a minimum of $15,000). Furthermore, supplementary health care, dental care, and long-term disability plans as regards the Academic Staff had been converted from "insured" plans (whereby the insurer bears some degree of risk) to "administrative services only" (ASO) plans (whereby the insurer becomes solely the plan administrator and the policyholder assumes the risk).

These developments, then, helped speed up the arrival of the Central Pension and Benefits Administration Office. Dollarwise it was an inexpensive trip because existing resources were pooled. Two administrative positions were altered: Elmer Faszer, now Payroll and Benefits Accounting Officer, previously administered University benefits. That task now belongs to Ron Falconer, Director of the Central Pension and Benefits Administration Office and the person who previously administered pensions only.

Having been with the University since 1956, Mr. Falconer has the knowledge and experience to head an office that is the only source of information about benefits. Requests for benefits information involving such offices as Personnel Services and the Comptroller's Office will be channeled through the Central Pension and Benefits Office in both directions. Mr. Falconer will become something of an ombudsman should an individual find himself butting heads with bureaucracy. No one, however, will be able to plead total ignorance when it comes to benefits plans. A primary duty of Mr. Falconer and his staff is the enrolling of all new staff, both academic and non-academic, in the appropriate benefits plans, and the supplying of both oral and written responses to individual requests and a regular communication (at least annually) to all staff concerning the status of their benefits.

The new office's mandate also takes in communication and liaison with outside underwriters, agencies, and consultants regarding benefits, including regular reporting and claims processing, and discussions regarding changes in plans, new plans, and appropriate follow-up action.

The umbrella of the Central Pension and Benefits Administration Office covers Academic Group Life Insurance, Academic Long-Term Disability, Academic Supplementary Health Care Insurance, Academic Dental Care Insurance, Universities Academic Pension Plan, Travel Accident Insurance, Alberta Health Care, Non-Academic Group Life Insurance, Non-Academic Long-Term Disability Insurance, Non-Academic Dental Care Insurance, Public Service Pension Plan (Non-Academic Staff), Blue Cross (Non-Academic Staff), Remission of Tuition Fees, Workers' Compensation, and all Optional Insurance Plans.

Mr. Falconer and David Norwood, Executive Assistant to the Vice-President (Finance and Administration), laid the groundwork for the office, in the process visiting five major Canadian universities and corresponding with a number of others. It is their contention that The University of Alberta benefits packages take a back seat to none in Canada. The benefits plans are lined with systemized approaches for contingencies and costs are judiciously spread over time. As a self-insurer the University, rather than paying premiums to an insurance company, puts such money into reserves; the dental plans, for example, operate on a direct cost basis (cash in, cash out), a system that works best when large numbers of people are involved. The University, with a total full-time staff of some 5,000 people, qualifies as one of the biggest insurers in Edmonton and Mr.

Falconer emphasizes that its plans are designed to meet the needs of people in a very responsible way. Questions and/or comments about pension and benefits plans should be directed to the Central Pension and Benefits Administration Office, 141 Athabasca Hall, telephone 432-4756 or 432-5634. □

Bears and Pandas Appointments

There have been four new appointments to the coaching staff of the Golden Bears and Pandas sports teams: Dru Marshall, Verna Overend, Ken Brice, and Therese Quigley.

Miss Marshall and Miss Overend have assumed responsibility for the Pandas Field Hockey unit, the former as head coach and the latter as assistant coach. Dru Marshall has spent five years playing intercollegiate hockey. Before coming to The University of Alberta in 1979, she played and studied at the University of Manitoba where she gained a baccalaureate in physical education. In her two subsequent years with the Pandas, she scored a total of twenty-one goals, a Panda career record. In addition to her University commitments, Miss Marshall has also been a long-standing member of various Manitoba provincial teams.

Verna Overend is also highly talented. A native of Edmonton and a graduate of this University with a Bachelor of Physical Education degree, Miss Overend has instructed students of field hockey at the University of Ottawa. Her new appointment, however, is her first coaching position.

Ken Brice, named assistant coach to the Golden Bears gridiron squad with particular responsibility for the offensive backfield, has been a long serving (twelve years) football coach within the Edmonton Public School District. From 1968 to 1974, he was head coach for the Bonnie Doon Composite High School leading the Lancers to the city championship on three occasions. In 1975, Mr. Brice moved to the Strathcona Composite High School. His new team became city champions in 1978 and 1979. Mr. Brice is a graduate of the University of Saskatchewan.

Therese Quigley is appointed to the position of assistant coach with the Pandas Volleyball team. A graduate of the University of Western Ontario, Miss Quigley was a member of Canada's national team in 1973 and 1974 and a member of the team that represented our country in the 1973 World University Games. For the last four years, she has taught and coached at the Saunders Senior Secondary School in London, Ontario. The team captured the Ontario High School Championship in 1979. □

Carlo Caldarola, 1928-1981

Carlo Caldarola died suddenly while in Rome, on the afternoon of 26 August 1981. He was on his way to a Sociology of Religion conference in Geneva with a stop planned on his return at The Hague to see his publisher.

Dr. Caldarola joined the Department of Sociology at The University of Alberta as an Assistant Professor in 1969; completed his PhD at the University of California at Berkeley in 1971; and became a full professor in 1978. Prior to beginning a career in sociology, Dr. Caldarola studied Catholic theology and philosophy in Italy. He was an accomplished linguist and had mastered Latin, Greek, Italian, Japanese, French, Spanish and German. He also graduated with a master's degree in Anthropology from the Tokyo Metropolitan University.

While at The University of Alberta, Professor Caldarola acquired a reputation as a gifted teacher and renowned scholar. His scholarly interests spanned the areas of the sociology of religion, political sociology, sociology of ideas and comparative sociology but his major area of concern in recent years has been the sociology of Japan. In that regard he was able to master the language, the psychology and the culture of that country. He was highly respected in Japan and in great demand as a visiting lecturer. He published articles and books about Japan in both English and Japanese. Titles of some of his recent works testify to the breadth of his interests and abilities: Christianity: The Japanese Way (Leiden: Brill, 1979), Seio Kirisuntokyo to Nihon no Bunka (Western Christianity and Japanese Culture, Tokyo: Shinkyo Shuppanasha, 1979); Society and Politics in Alberta (Toronto: Methuen, 1979); Japanese Folk Culture in Southern Alberta (Report Written for the Museum of Modern Man, Ottawa, 1980). A recent review of Christianity: The Japanese Way suggests that "The . . . monograph contains a wealth of original data and is thus an important document for students of Japanese religion. Perhaps more important, Caldarola has provided a historical context which gives the study a much broader relevance . . . Those who find the newer "phenomenological" trends in sociology and anthropology refreshing will be pleased with this well-written and scholarly book. The Japanese version is already making a considerable impact in Japan." A review of Society and Politics in Alberta states . . . "my general impression is that the book is well worth reading and that Caldarola should be given full marks for bringing together this collection of essays, which contributes significantly to our understanding of Alberta politics and society."

Beyond these book-length works, he had published many articles in a variety of respected scholarly journals on topics ranging from an article on "Japanese Skid Row" to one on "Power Structure in Post Industrial Society." In the past six years, Professor Caldarola was most concerned with the interplay of religions and societies in Asia and the Middle East, a volume with the same title (Religions and Societies: Asia and the Middle East) was being prepared for Mouton Publishers in The Hague. His work on that collection was nearing completion and the publishers indicate that it will be published posthumously late this year or early next year. His colleagues, in many countries, who had learned to expect the highest scholarship from Professor Caldarola have been looking forward to the publication of this important book.

During his years at The University of Alberta, he served on many departmental and University committees. But the task that he loved most was his long association with the Arts Faculty Standing Committee on East Asian Studies. Throughout his career, he attempted to promote many aspects of East Asian Studies. He wanted to see a very strong program and commitment to East Asian Studies in the University. His work in that area will not be forgotten by the many people who have benefitted from his efforts.

Carlo Caldarola was a gentle man with a well developed sense of humor. He was genuinely liked by all who had the privilege of knowing him. He will be greatly missed by his students, colleagues and friends.

He is survived by his wife Genevieve of Edmonton and his brother Guido Caldarola of Naples, Italy. □

A Women's Program?

What kinds of programs of special interest to women would you like to participate in or be involved with in offering? What are the issues affecting women that need a forum for discussion? Would a women's resource centre be of interest to you? Women will have the opportunity to provide input on these questions through the recently established Women's Program in the Faculty of Extension at The University of Alberta, Edmonton.

The role of the Women's Program is to link the resources of the University to the interests and needs of women in Alberta. Over the next few months, Sandy Susut, supervisor of the Women's Program will be talking with women, women's organizations, and agencies and government departments which deal with women, in order to determine which programs would be relevant to the needs and interests of women. Time will also be spent talking with potential resource people and instructors of courses and workshops. Based on these discussions, a program will be developed and offered. To provide ongoing input, an advisory board to the Women's Program will be established.

The establishment of the Women's Program reflects the rising level of interest in women's issues. Programs for women and women's studies programs have expanded across Canada since the late 1960s in response to the growing and changing learning interests of women. Women's studies programs seek to understand the historical and contemporary situation of women in society, i.e. what it has meant and means to be a woman, and to appreciate the contributions made by women. Programs for women seek to provide practical information and skills in a wide range of areas to assist women to develop their potential and to constructively change their lives, both individually and collectively. The Women's Program will seek to integrate both women's studies and programs for women.

All of the courses offered through the Women's Program will be non-credit. This should allow the flexibility to develop courses and follow-up issues of interest and relevance to women. Program format can be for evening or daytime, weekdays or weekends, one-day seminars or noon-hour sessions. The location can be on or off the University campus, in Edmonton or the surrounding area. Efforts will be made to co-sponsor programs with women's organizations and other institutions whenever possible.

This fall a course entitled "Women in Canadian History" will be offered. Have you ever wondered what life was like for the average Canadian pioneer woman? Taught by Susan Jackel, this course will acquaint women and interested men with some of the recent writing in the growing field of Canadian women's history. The course will also provide an opportunity for informal discussions.

A workshop called "Counselling Girls and Women" will be offered in November by Rosemary Liburd. It has been recognized that women are socialized in a manner that is different than that of men. If counselling is to be a productive process for women, it is essential that the nature of the female experience be examined and understood by counsellors. It is toward this end that the two-day workshop has been designed for helping professionals (guidance, family and employment counsellors and social workers, etc.) involved with counselling girls and women.

Depending on interest, there are several courses and workshops which could begin in January 1982. Included are "Words of Women: Canadian Women Writers," a survey of contemporary works; "The Reality of Immigrant Women in Canadian Society," an analysis of the special problems, including ethnic and sex discrimination; "Sex and Status in Cross-Cultural Perspectives," an examination of the status of women in different societies and how this perspective is relevant to the women's movement.

The possibilities in course topics are almost endless. Courses which would provide practical information could include the following: "Health Hazards of Housework," "Women and the Law," "Juggling the Roles—Careers and Children," "Women's Health and Self-Care," "Effective Organizing for Change," "Women and the Middle Years," "Surviving as a Single Parent," "Women in the Current Alberta Political Economy," etc. The development of courses will ultimately depend on what women want. Many of the emerging courses may also be of interest to men as well.

In addition to course development, the Women's Program will endeavor to work directly with women's organizations in an outreach capacity providing organizational, networking and consultative services. The Program may also include the development of a women's resource centre, however, this will depend on the availability of financial resources. Such a centre would act as a clearing house for information and activities of interest to women.

The intended outcome is a dynamic program which will serve the interests of a broad range of women, especially those who have not traditionally used the resources and facilities of the University. If you have ideas about programs that you would like to participate in or offer, or would like to discuss the Women's Program or be placed on a mailing list for future activities, please contact Sandy Susut at 432-3093. The mailing address is: Women's Program, Faculty of Extension, 236 Corbett Hall, The

University of Alberta, Edmonton, Alberta T6G 2G4. □*

This article was contributed to the Alberta Women's Bureau Newsletter by Sandy Susut. The new coordinator of the Faculty of Extension's Women's Program is a graduate of this University with Bachelor's and Master's degrees in Community Development. In addition to her appointment within the Faculty of Extension, Sandy Susut is a member of the collective that operates the enterprise Common Woman Books and serves on the committee organizing the Alberta Status of Women Action Committee Conference that will take place in November.*

Colloquium XVIII: The Human Dilemma

This academic year Colloquium XVIII will focus on what is termed the human dilemma. In eight meetings from 14 October to 10 March, eight books will be discussed that are considered to provide insight into "some of the acute international concerns" of the 1980s.

According to Colloquium's organizers, Charles Lockwood, Dean of Extension, and Gerry McCaughey, English, the sessions will allow an opportunity to discuss serious matters with other thoughtful citizens. The discussion of each book will be led by a faculty member who shares a concern about the several issues.

"The objective will be to deepen the range of our understanding and look for signs of hope."

The program leads off on 14 October with a discussion of The Dagger of Islam by John Laffin. The discussion, after dinner at the Faculty Club—all sessions will follow the same format of no-host bar at 6 p.m., dinner at 6:30 p.m.—will be directed by Joseph Cahill of Religious Studies. The next meeting, 28 October, will consider The Merchants of Grain by Dan Morgan. The chairman will be C. Fred Bentley, Professor Emeritus of Agriculture.

In November there will be two meetings, on the fourth and twenty-fifth days of that month. For the first of the two meetings Myer Horowitz will lead a discussion of My Life by Golda Meir. The second meeting will be devoted to Claire Sterling's The Terror Network and will be chaired by Leslie C. Green, University Professor in the Department of Political Science.

Colloquium's first gathering in the new year will be on 6 January to discuss General Sir John Hackett's The Third World War. Kenneth C. Taylor, History, will serve as chairman. The second meeting in January 1982 will consider The Seven Sisters by Anthony Sampson. Edward H. Shaffer of Economics will lead the discussion.

The last two meetings of Colloquium XVIII will convene on 17 February and 10 March. In February, consideration will be given to Terror in the Starboard Seat by Dave McIntosh, with Bob Smith, Regional Sales Manager for Phillips Cables Limited, acting as leader. The last meeting in March will deal with Endgame: SALT II by Strobe Talbott. The chairman at this session will be David B. DeWitt of Political Science.

People who share concerns about economic woes (Colloquium's fee is $275), religious and political strife, and war as a relief valve for human tension, should telephone Dean Lockwood at 432-2681. The fee includes the cost of dinner and books. □

City Presents Graduate Fellowship

On Tuesday, 8 September, the City of Edmonton's support for our institution was once again made manifest with the presentation of the 1981-82 Graduate Fellowship to a student in the Department of Economics. The fellowship, worth $6,600, was presented to graduate Student Kells Owen Hall by Mayor C.J. Purves.

There will, reasonably enough, be some advantage to Edmontonians. Mr. Hall's project is to undertake a detailed study of property tax capitalization and the extent to which it exists within metropolitan Edmonton. Property tax capitalization is a process whereby a higher or lower property tax leads to a change in property value.

Mr. Hall will also consider such topics as the factors that contribute to one's choice in buying a residence and the factors that affect the value of a property. He will submit the results of his studies to the City of Edmonton when his tenure of the Fellowship comes to a close. □

Institute of Food Studies

Possibilities for establishment of an Institute of Food Studies at this University are currently being explored by an informal Ad Hoc Committee. The envisioned purpose of the proposed group is to have an organizational structure for University of Alberta continuing faculty members who are actively and professionally involved with any facet of human food production, processing, marketing, or effects on the population.

The main objectives of the future Institute are seen as relating to promotion of research capabilities and "cross-boundary communication" among interested University staff, facilitation of public information, and development of new multi-disciplinary approaches in the various areas of our University activities. The Ad Hoc "Executive Committee" was formed after an informal meeting supported by more than twenty-five interested individuals last spring. One of the wishes expressed by the meeting was for the Committee to organize a series of dinner discussion groups with technical presentations. The first of these meetings is being considered for a suitable date in October, with more information to be available later.

At the present time, the Ad Hoc Committee has a mailing list of twenty-nine individuals from nine Faculties, as diverse as Law, Agriculture, Engineering, Medicine, Home Economics and others. Any staff member who has not received the notice and/or the minutes of the first informal meeting last spring and who is interested in this matter should contact any of the Ad Hoc Committee members: W. Andrew (432-2619), Z. Hawrysh (432-3830), P. Jelen (432-2480), M. LeMaguer (432-4592). □

University Orientation Days Call for Presentations and Displays

Faculties, Departments, Divisions, student service organizations, clubs and other interested campus groups are invited to submit applications for lecture and/or display space at the annual University Orientation Days. These will take place on 25 and 26 February 1982.

University Orientation Days are designed to give such groups as are mentioned here an opportunity to present information on their offerings, facilities, programs and the like to a wide range of people. The Orientation Days in 1981 attracted some 9,000 visitors to campus, including prospective students, parents, and counsellors. An even greater number of visitors is expected in 1982.

For more information about the University Orientation Days, please telephone their Coordinator, Lorne Gunter, in the Office of the Registrar, 432-5392. The deadline for submissions has been set as Friday, 16 October 1981. □

President's Committee on Human Nutrition

The President, Myer Horowitz, has established a President's Committee on Human Nutrition. The purpose of the Committee is:

1. to identify the programs in diet and nutrition currently being given at The University of Alberta;
2. to identify staff interested and involved in aspects of diet and nutrition research, teaching and Alberta;
3. to investigate ways that university, government, and industry can cooperate in aspects of nutrition research, teaching and public resources;

4. to make recommendations on the continued updating needs and availability of the nutrition data base donated by Kellogg Salada (Canada) Incorporated; and
5. to investigate the feasibility of sponsoring workshops, group meeting and seminars on nutrition.

Any individuals who have a professional interest in human diet or nutrition, and would like to be involved in the actions of this Committee, are invited to contact J.A. Hargreaves, Chairman of the President's Committee on Nutrition, Faculty of Dentistry, 3096 Dentistry/Pharmacy Building. □

Conference on Biomembranes Call for Papers

The ninth annual Conference on Biomembranes will be held this year from 4 to 6 December at the Banff Springs Hotel. In addition to the invited lectures listed below, submitted papers will be presented as ten minute communications followed by five minute discussion periods. The afternoons will be free for recreation.

Abstracts of papers submitted for presentation must be sent by 2 November to Michael W. Wolowyk, Faculty of Pharmacy and Pharmaceutical Sciences, The University of Alberta, Edmonton, Alberta T6G 2N8.

The invited lectures will be: "Membrane-Bound ATP Fuels the Na/K Pump," by Phil B. Dunham (Syracuse University), "New Fluorescence Methods for Studying Model Membrane Systems," by Bruce Hudson (University of Oregon), and "Nucleoside Transport: Mechanisms in Animal Cells," by Allan R. Paterson (The University of Alberta).

For more information, please telephone Dr. Wolowyk at 432-5303.

Devonian Botanic Garden

The Devonian Botanic Garden Club will hold its annual dried flower arrangement and dried plant material sale at the Southgate Shopping Mall from 24 to 26 September. Those people wishing to have a special arrangement made or requiring an arrangement in a specific container should telephone Kay Ludwig, 434-1038, or the Garden, 987-3054.

Alberta Advisory Committee For Educational Studies

The AACES will receive applications for grants to support descriptive or experimental studies in education. Grants in excess of $3,000 are awarded only rarely because of limited resources and cannot be given for research which is part of graduate studies.

Application forms should be requested from, and returned to, Helen Mitchell, 1320B Education Tower,

The University of Calgary, Calgary, Alberta T2N 1N4.

Completed applications received by 5 October will be in time for processing in the fall.

Guy Jutte to Retire

Guy Jutte, Grounds Manager, Department of Physical Plant, will retire this fall from The University of Alberta. Guy's association with the University for over thirty years will be honored at an informal luncheon in the Banquet Room at Lister Hall on Friday, 25 September 1981 at 12 noon. Staff, friends and acquaintances of Guy's are cordially invited on this occasion to wish Guy well on his retirement.

For information and RSVP your attendance, please contact Nancy MacDonald, Physical Plant Office, 432-4210.

Research Grants

Granting Agencies:

Application Deadlines

This list of deadline dates for submissions to granting agencies for research funds, exchange programs, and travel grants is published every month in Folio. In order to allow sufficient time for processing, all applications should reach the Research Grants and Contracts Office at least ten days before the deadline date. Where other University resources are involved, the time requirement may be much longer than ten days and such applications should therefore be submitted well in advance. An extra copy of the application should be provided for the Research Grants and Contracts Office.

Further information may be obtained by consulting the Calendar of Granting Agencies for Research Funds, Exchange Programs, and Travel Grants, which is available in the offices of Deans, Directors of Institutes, Centres, and Schools, and Department Chairmen, or by telephoning the Research Grants and Contracts Office, 432-2002. Note: Although the Calendar is updated on a continuous basis, the following information could be subject to change without notice. If staff members have advance information on forthcoming changes, the Research Grants and Contracts Office would appreciate being advised. Code: (R) Research Funds; (E) Exchange Programs; (T) Travel Grants. The Calendar Source Number is also given in parentheses.
